An impossibly chic retreat for anyone who loves art and literature – and a subtle alternative to the city's traditional 5-star hotels

Le Pavillon des Lettres is privately owned by the Chevalier family, who also own Hotel Le Pavillon de la Reine and Hôtel du Petit Moulin.

A luxury boutique hotel, Le Pavillon des Lettres opened in 2011. Set behind the rue du Faubourg St Honoré, it is perfectly located for some of Paris' most famous landmarks - a short walk from the Champs-Élysées, the Jardin des Tuileries and Le Louvre.

The hotel is based on a novel concept: it has 26 rooms, one for each letter of the alphabet. Each is dedicated to different writer - from A for Andersen to Z for Zola. Lines from a poem, play or text are hand-stencilled above the bed to form an integral part of the design in every room.

The hotel is classically French; elegant and modern with picture-perfect views over the rooftops of Paris to the Eiffel Tower.
